This course is an examination of the religious traditions of the Indian subcontinent. Attentive to the political and social contexts in which specific religious traditions, such as Hinduism, Buddhism, Sikhism and Islam, were formed, the course will also explore the ways in which religious communities interact in South Asia. Thus, we will not only attend to the ways religion and religious ideas are articulated in a textual canon, but will also examine the lived/living dimensions of religious experience in the region.

No Prerequisites

GE credit (New): AH, VL, WC and WE

GE credit (Old): AH, D and WE